ECHO OF SHELL BLAST HEARD IN COURT SUIT

Bank Sues Government For Insurance On War Veteran.

REPORTED KILLED

Uncle Sam Contends Archie Haught Is Not Dead.

An echo of a shell explosion in the World War will be heard in federal court in Cleveland Monday when the government will attempt to prove that Private Archie B. Haught, East Liverpool soldier, was not killed in battle, as previously reported.

The First National bank is suing the federal government for $7,500 alleged to be due on Haught's war insurance policy. The bank, as executor of Haught's estate, is bringing the suit in behalf of the beneficiaries named in Haught's policies.

Assistant District Attorney D. C. VanBurne of Cleveland asserted today he had witnesses who would testify they saw Haught alive in France, several months after a high explosive shell dropped among a group of American soldiers, and after which Haught was reported killed in action.

Several of Haught's fellow soldiers have testified he was in the group struck by the shell and that they never saw him afterward. The government paid about $2,500 of Haught's $10,000 policy but discontinued payments after it had been reported that he was still alive. The bank also contends that Haught is legally dead, not having been seen or been in communication with his relatives.

Who Sold the Lady Liquor? Hard Fight in Mexico. The Power of Comparison. Editors and Cooks.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE. (Copyright, 1929, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

MR. SMITH and Mr. Bell went to a party. Mr. Smith got drunk. Mr. Bell remained sober.

Mr. Smith, according to evidence, was determined to take home a lady brought by Mr. Bell. Followed a discussion. Mr. Smith fell, or was pushed, cracked his skull, died.

THE jury refuses to indict Mr. Bell. Men who drink bootleg liquors must take the consequences, unless actual murder can be proved.

What about the gentleman that sold to the "lady prominent in Park avenue social circles" the liquor that Mr. Smith drank before he was killed?

Nobody seems to be interested in him.

REBELS in Mexico appear to have the better of an important battle with Federal troops. Bloody fighting is reported.

The Associated Press, referring to the revolutionists as "religious rebels," describes them rushing into a battle with desperate courage, shouting "Vive Cristo Rey." (Long live Christ the King).

THOSE that possess the power of comparison are strong. Shakespeare causes Caesar to compare himself with the Northern Star, and compares the feeling of jealousy to a toad, living upon the vapor of a duncheon.

"DAPPER DON" COLLINS, whom the police call a professional swindler, says of detectives in general, "Those b-ies couldn't detect a horseshoe in a plate of hash." That's also a striking comparison.

THE Publishers' Association heard purchase and control of public newspapers by paper and power manufacturing corporations condemned.

There is comfort for the publishers in one well-established fact. A man may be able to buy newspapers without knowing how to RUN newspapers.

BIG packing concerns might buy up restaurants with the idea of supplying all the meats for customers. But if they didn't have cooks for the rest of the world, they wouldn't have many customers.

An editor owned by power or paper isn't much of an editor, and papers won't amount to much in the long run.

NEW AMUSEMENTS

Series of Dances Will Be Held Prior to Park Season.

New amusements, improvements and alterations costing approximately $50,000 are planned at Rock Springs park, Chester, in preparation for the picnic season. Park Manager C. C. Macdonald announced today.

Among the new amusement features which will be featured at the park this season will be the "Frolie," a riding device having five different movements, and a ferris wheel, built exclusively for the Chester resort by the Big Ely company of Jacksonville, Ill. The ferris wheel, 60 feet high, is equipped with white enamel seats, inlaid with plate glass mirrors and surrounded by gold leaf scroll and hundreds of electric lights.

Bathhouse Rebuilt. Improvements are being made to the bathhouse and Crystal pool, the park's bathing concession. The bathhouse has been rebuilt. Lockers and showers will be on the first floor along with the check room, first aid and rest rooms.

A new boardwalk for bathers is being constructed on the east side of the pool, back of which and extending to the promenade on the second floor of the bathhouse will be bleacher seats with accommodations for 400 persons. Entrance to the bathhouse and bleachers will be through turnstiles from the lake front side.

BRITISH GOLFERS WIN RYDER CUP

By F. A. WRAY International News Service Staff Correspondent

MOORTOWN, Eng., April 27.—Staging a brilliant uphill fight, Great Britain this afternoon conquered America's greatest professional golfers and won the historic Ryder cup, 64 points to 44. The Englishmen started today's singles matches trailing by one point, yesterday's foursomes having given the invaders a 24 to 14 point lead.

By virtue of their victory, the British have wrested the cup from the defending United States team. The poor showing of Walter Hagen, captain of the American team, who was beaten 10 up and 8 to play by George Duncan, captain of the British aggregation, was one of the surprises of the day.

Johnny Farrell, the American open champion, went down to a convincing defeat, 8 down and 6 to play, at the hands of Charles Whitcombe. The seasoned Gene Sarazen was beaten almost as badly. He lost to the hard-hitting Archie Compston, six and five.

More Than 500 Are Homeless and Facing Greater Menace of Plague.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 27.—(INS)—The human toll in storm ravaged central Georgia and South Carolina mounted today to at least 92 dead, 447 injured and more than 500 homeless and faced by the greater menace of plague as hastily strung telegraph lines carried heart-breaking stories and appeals for aid northward.

Red Cross workers and voluntary aides groped their way through almost impassable highways to reach the stricken sector and give succor to stranded families who gazed in dull-eyed, pathetic hopelessness at the ruin brought by the tornadoes which swept through the two states late Thursday night.

As salvaging went forward, protected in some cases by National Guardsmen to forestall possible looting, revised estimates of the property loss placed the damage at $1,250,000. Even this figure will mount as communication with the storm-swept area is reestablished, it is believed.

Statesboro, Ga., Asks Help.

DELAWARE, O., April 27.—(INS)—The spirit of impetuous youth behind the steering wheel of a high-powered roadster today had claimed the life of James T. Begg, Jr., 19-year-old son of Congressman James T. Begg, Sandusky, and caused injuries to another youth.

Young Begg was killed at Stratford, near here, last night, when the roadster which he was driving and in which two other Kenyon college students were riding, failed to negotiate the turn at Stratford bridge, struck and snapped a telephone pole in two and plunged into the Olentangy river, 35 feet below. Community Chest

Wellsville, East Liverpool's neighbor, may adopt the community chest plan in providing funds for welfare work.

The plan, which has proved successful in Cleveland and other cities, large and small, would eliminate the need for many campaigns during the year by centering interest in one movement in which all recognized organizations would share proportionately.

Wellsville, like East Liverpool, is called upon annually for contributions for the Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Salvation Army and other causes, thus necessitating services of volunteers in a half dozen or more canvasses in which the same territory is covered and the same prospects interviewed.

As proponents of the plan point out, the community chest would permit the bulking of the needs of the entire group in one budget which would require but one campaign. And the idea has the added allurements of economy in that over-subscriptions in any one campaign under the present system would accrue to the benefit of all participating if the money were placed in one fund.

East Liverpool, too, would do well to consider the community chest suggestion. It would mean saving in time of campaigners and probably enable the public to support all worthwhile causes at less cost than under the separate canvass plan.

Sensible Suggestion

The "Dutch" date, long unrealized ideal of young men with limited incomes, has been suggested by Miss Nellie Lee Holt, instructor in religious education at Stephens College, Columbia, Missouri, as a consistent practice. Her reason, especially applicable in college groups, is that the girl usually has an allowance as large, if not larger, than the boy's allowance, and a system which places all the expense on the masculine side of the fence is unfair. By changing the word "allowance" to "income," the same reasoning can apply to thousands of young people in the business world. Everyone works in this age and it is only fair that everyone should pay.

The 50-50 date is another expression of the improved attitude found between most men and women of this decade. The woman is no longer a blushing violet with swiftly flying feet to run away, hotly pursued by the ardent male. She no longer shrinks, after capture, behind her veil of maidenly confusion and she no longer faints, when everything else fails. At least, she does not admit that those are her tactics.

Friendship and love between young people, now, usually grow out of a mutual willingness to share responsibility which brings happiness, or may, by an unforeseen twist of fate, bring sorrow. The modern attitude is symbolized by the clasped hand; the Victorian attitude by maidenly blushes and fervent pursuit.

It is possible that styles will change again in the next hundred years. Grandparents of the present generation cannot understand the attitude of youth today, and the same youth may not be able to understand the attitudes of their grandchildren, fifty years hence. But it is not probable, no more so than it would be to expect an universal return to the horse and buggy, as a means of locomotion.

After all, results are the important thing in the neurotic pastime of courtship and marriage and who can say that it makes much difference whether one's wife is captured with a lass of blue bells, or the strong chains of mutual enterprise and understanding? Perhaps, one is as effective as the other, but the 50-50 basis seems more reasonable.

Appalling Situation

Earthquakes, droughts, floods and famines, supplementing the horrors of war, have reduced the population of the Chinese province of Kansu from 9,000,000 to 7,000,000.

Survivors, for many months, have existed on straw, dried leaves, cotton seed, bark and weeds. Grain brings $50 a bushel, and there is no hope of adequate relief until the June harvest, and very little for more than partial relief at that time owing to the inability of the inhabitants to secure seed.

The central government has issued famine relief bonds to the amount of $50,000,000 and is urging those of means throughout the land to buy. But $650,000 has been thus raised.

History shows that there have been 246 great disasters in China since 636 A. D., but that the present is the greatest experienced in that land over a territory so comparatively limited, for Kansu, despite its population of 9,000,000 at the beginning of 1928 is but one of the many provinces of China and small by comparison with many of them.

Kansu may stage a comeback, but no matter what the fate of China may be, good or bad, the communists, both native and Russian, have an awful charge to answer, for their activities brought on the war which has multiplied the horrors caused by the forces of nature.

Golfers in Pittsfield, Mass., wondered where their balls went, until 29 of them were found in a cow's stomach. That cow must have died trying to chew her cud.

Motor statistics show that the average automobile travels 5,550 miles a year, and it stops 1,247,694 times for red lights.

Cleveland people have raised $6,000,000 for their symphony orchestra. Nobody ever did that for jazz.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 27.—Supported by a public which has made large stock-market profits and which shows a strong tendency to invest part of them in aviation companies, the giants of the financial world have taken the air transportation business in hand, and in three years American aviation has risen from an infant industry of not more than ten million dollars capital, to a giant with capitalization exceeding a billion dollars. If flying is not yet a big business, it is certainly a big investment proposition.

Before Lindbergh crossed the Atlantic, any one who bought stock in airplane companies was considered a wild-eyed gambler. Since that notable event, which marks the real beginning of aeronautics as a nationwide business adventure, everybody has been buying aviation stocks, and this public enthusiasm for investment in the air has enabled the financial giants to lock horns in a titanic struggle to be first in each step in developing commercial air transport.

The desire to buy an interest in aviation, which looms before the public as the coming great and successful transportation industry, is doubtless based on the recent great profits which have accrued to investors in the automobile and radio fields. One reads that a few hundred dollars invested with Henry Ford, when he started, would have made millions, and a like amount in General Motors would have realized thousands, or hundreds of thousands. Radio Corporation stock, a drag on the market not many years ago at less than twenty dollars a share, leaps to above four hundred. If profits like these accrued to those who got in on the ground floor of motors and radio, wisdom seems to dictate the advantages of getting in on the ground floor of aviation.

This bright light of financial promise lilt the country at a time when prosperity was at a high level, and plenty of people had the hundreds to invest. The result is the leap in aviation capital from a few scanty millions to the billion dollar class in less than three years. Three or four years ago a manufacturer of airplanes or of airplane engines who went to New York in search of capital met with a cold shoulder. Solid money was not taking chances with wild cat schemes. Today one New York financial group, headed by Clement M. Keys, is in control of a dozen corporations operating in various branches of aeronautics, and has launched great holding companies, capitalized at hundreds of millions, which own blocks of the capital stock of the Curtiss group of companies, the Wright engines, the eastern air mail contract operators, the new railroad-airplane company, which is about to open the first transcontinental service, and other enterprises in the air.

A score of so of aviation stocks are traded in on the New York Curb Market, and two or three have found their way into the New York Stock exchange. About fifty stocks of aviation companies are listed for trading over-the-counter in New York, and every mail from that metropolis carries from a hundred brokers' offices the stories of this or that aviation stock, mail which goes to ever-growing lists of prospective investors in every village and on every farm in America.

The financing and operations plans of the large groups have been laid out wisely so as to combine under one general ownership and control both the profitable and the uncertain phases of aeronautics. The manufacture of airplanes, engines, and accessories is now a proved and highly profitable business when skillfully managed. The operation of air mail contract lines is a proved and profitable transportation enterprise. The operation of passenger and express lines is still in a stage of development.

There are, of course, plenty of chances to lose money by aeronautical investments. Any wave of public sentiment toward one form of investment develops its lunatic fringe, both of investors who will not look before they leap, and of promoters who offer relatively wild cat prospects under the guise of handsome printed matter and high quality language describing "their companies hope to do." The aviation investor needs to pick and choose as much as any other investor, but where a few years ago almost any aviation stock was a risky gamble in the eyes of conservative bankers, today the conservatives are leading the way in financial development of the air, and the wild at operators are merely the natural and inevitable followers of the bigger developments.

There remains a speculative element in aviation investment, but it is for the investor to choose between dividend-paying stocks, speculative conservative profit earners, and long shot schemes which may or may not be successful some day. When a stock appears at one dollar a share this week and is priced at six dollars two weeks later, it is very likely just so much sucker bait, but when stock is traded in steadily on the big exchanges, it is likely to have real and large values back of it. The immediate price may be too high or too low, but there are plenty of aeronautical concerns today which have lots of very genuine assets, and are not just dreams of the future.

Questions And Answers

By Frederic J. Haskin.

Step a minute and think about this fact. You can ask our Information Bureau any question of fact and get the answer back in a personal letter. It is a great educational idea introduced into the lives of the most intelligent people in the world—American newspaper readers. It is a part of that best purpose of a newspaper—service. There is no charge except two cents in coin or stamps for return postage. Get the habit of asking questions. Address your letter to the East Liverpool Review Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. How is a telephone conversation carried on between the United States and Paris? E. D.

A. The telephone company says that the trans-Atlantic calls are taken through the long distance telephone service from Washington to New York and then relayed from New York to London by radio, and from London to Paris, as a long distance telephone call.

Q. Is a President of the United States eligible for burial in Arlington cemetery? T. C.

A. He is not eligible unless he has an active military service.

Q. When did Pittsburgh have its first electric street car? D. M. B.

A. Pittsburgh's first electrically operated street car was put into service August 7, 1888, and was operated up and down the very steep hillside from Carson and South 13th streets to the Borough of Knoxville. This car line was constructed before the introduction of the present type of trolley pole and wheel, the contact with the overhead wire being made by means of a small carriage trailing behind the car and running on top of two trolley wheels. Because of the very steep grade, rack and wheel propulsion was used.

Q. Did P. T. Barnum die a wealthy man? D. E. M.

A. In his will Barnum disposed of an estate amounting to more than four million dollars.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Many theatrical performances have been saved by a quick gesture or a deft spoken word. There is no place where the trigger mind is so essential as on the stage, and it is but fair to chronicle players possess this quality to a marked degree.

The other night at a musical comedy a bickering gentleman swayed down a middle aisle in the midst of a performance, tossed a note across the footlights, staggered back to his seat and was in turn escorted roughly out into the mild spring air. But the note was in full view, absorbing the audience's interest.

A pair of fancy steppers came on during the agony and it was marvelous to watch the adroit manner in which one of them jockeyed the envelope over to the wings and with a back kick flipped it out of sight. To all appearances he did not know it was there.

Nothing causes an audience or players to suffer so much as a performer "going up in his lines." This happened in a dialogue on a half darkened stage recently between two finished actors. It was a tense scene upon which the entire action of the play hinged. And it was opening night.

One of the actors merely spoke his own lines, sensed the paralyzing fright, and changing his voice slightly, spoke the lines of the player who forgot. It was done with such magnificent realism only a few members of the company standing in the wings realized what was taking place. To the audience there was not a hitch.

The nearest bit of lightning fast thinking followed a rousing first night reception to George Kelly, the young playwright, called before the curtain for a speech. He spoke low and a rowdy boomed: "Louder!" Kelly like a shot responded "It isn't important!" and continued in his modulated tone.

In a musical comedy first night scene a scenery behind a back drop suddenly slipped, moorings and landed with a series of resounding crashes. "Just a shower of feathers!" piped up a comedian, and what might have been a box office tragedy became what Variety terms "a belly laugh."

In one of the Broadway choruses is a beautiful Japanese girl. I suppose the press agent has broadcast the news, but I have seen none of his exploitation. And she stands out like a silk hat on a golf course.

Beethoven, Bach and Brahms are giving away to stunt recitals even in such stately musical sanctuaries as Carnegie Hall. Following the didoes of such modernists as Antheil, Krenek and Les Six, came the harmonies of a big group of street urchins picked up on the East Side, who played harmonicas, jew's harps, ocarinas, gourds, turned ginger ale bottles, pebbles in cocoanuts and musical saws. But the latest is a recital to be held this summer by a group of gar-mouthed middle west farm hands, who will render familiar tunes by blowing on peach leaves. That will be a concert!

Braided morning coats with pin striped trousers were once seen only at weddings or Fifth Avenue Easter parades. Today they are as numerous as ermine wraps—my war on them has just begun—at first nights. Many men, occupying those exalted posts at glass-topped desks in banks, brokerage houses, hotels and smart shops, are so habited, and some of the holder spirits even wear a bout—You know, a lapel flower.

Then there is a rich Wall street broker who is reported never to wear the same hat more than a day. Earl Whittemore has 24 evening suits. George Jean Nathan has 40 overcoats and Mayor Walker 60 walking sticks. Raymond Hitchcock is sole proprietor of six pearl garb—three of which are constantly at the cleaners. And there is a hot tip going around that Heywood Brown has another necktie.

The newest in hotels to open in the Smart Sixties soon will have just 55 suites at $45 a day. Only those with Social Register—that's the one that includes Kip Rhineland—connections may make reservations. One of these days we intend to perfume ourselves like a sweet-smelling gourd, dress up like a Park Avenue squash champion, and walk fast through the lobby.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

It is unfortunate that many persons fill their stomachs, satisfy their hunger and grow fat perhaps, but still are neglecting to get all the food they really need. Far too often we act as if quantity were the only factor to be considered.

Let us think for a moment. What would you think of the owner of an automobile who never bought oil for his car, but stopped at the filling station twice a day to get gasoline? You know the machine would rebel very quickly.

Perhaps you remonstrate with him and, to "even things up," he gets buying gasoline, but fills the oil tank two or three times a day. Of course, the car won't run long.

The fact is that there must be a proper proportion of oil and gasoline. Both are essential to the continued operation of the car. It is necessary, too, to add water to the batteries. There must be some of this, that and the other and enough of each of the essentials.

If it is true of a mechanical device that it must have just the right quantity of several "foods," it is plain that the human machine must have an un-failing supply of every single food that each individual cell and fibre and organ requires. Without such a supply there will be trouble. Sooner or later there will be uncomfortable symptoms.

Perhaps I can illustrate what I have in mind by speaking about goiter. You know what that is—"thick neck," it is sometimes called.

In the neck, on each side of the "Adam's apple," are the parts of what is called the "thyroid gland." When this gets out of order, there may be enlargement of the organ and disturbance in the normal generation of its juices. Since this secretion has an important part to play in mental and physical activity, unless this organ operates normally, the afflicted individual is in danger.

It has been found that the absence of iodine may produce goiter. If we do not take the foods which carry iodine and get that element in sufficient quantity, the trouble develops.

It is interesting that in countries or localities remote from the sea, goiter is much more likely to occur. This fact drew attention to the use of fish as a possible means of escaping the disease. A chemical analysis of several varieties of fish revealed that iodine is found in sea fish and not in fish from fresh water.

Then tests were made to find out if canning or preserving the fish altered the iodine content. This was important, because it is not easy, even with modern methods of refrigeration, to get salt water fish to these sections where goiter is prevalent.

It was found, fortunately, that the preservative processes do not destroy the iodine. Among the sources of iodine supply, therefore we have in the eating of sea fish, one way to help overcome the dangers of goiter.

Senators-at-large.

What to do with former presidents of the United States continues to be a subject of wide discussion. Senator Fess, of Ohio, has just come forward with a suggestion that when a man retires from the White House he automatically becomes a senator-at-large for life at a salary of $25,000 per annum. There really seems little occasion for excitement over the future of former presidents of the United States. At present there are two living former presidents, William Howard Taft, chief justice, and Calvin Coolidge, private citizen. Both appear to be amply able to take care of themselves and their families. Rarely has there been a time when there have been more than two living ex-presidents of the United States.

The best plan probably, is to permit the former presidents to do what they wish. A man who has been chief executive of the United States is usually quite capable of looking after himself. This was true of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, for example, and of Grover Cleveland and others who have attained the high office of president. When he left the White House, Woodrow Wilson was a very sick man. Fortunately he had made provision for his own future, however, and his last years were passed in comfort so far as money could make them so.

The proposal of Senator Fess is made not only for the purpose of giving ex-presidents a competence for the remainder of their lives, but also that the senate may have the benefit of the advice of former presidents. The Ohio senator argues that their wide experience and knowledge of public affairs, gained in the White House, should be used continuously for the public good. However, it is possible for former presidents of the United States to get the ear of the public when ever they wish to give the country the benefit of their advice, without their becoming senators. Former President Coolidge today is busily engaged in giving expression to his own views on public affairs through writing magazine articles.

This latest ex-president has just made it clear in one of these articles that he is desirous of entering again into the active life as a private citizen of the United States. He even considers it a privilege, he says, to become once more a citizen unattached to the government, but in a position to work for the good of the country as a private citizen. Apparently Senator Fess need waste no sympathy upon Mr. Coolidge.

Mr. Coolidge has been urged by friends in Massachusetts to run for the senate next fall, to succeed Senator Gillet. If the former president determines to enter the lists, he may become senator by the vote of the people of his own state. Doubtless they will be fully able to determine whether they wish to be represented in the upper house by Mr. Coolidge and how long they desire to retain him in the senate, should he ever go to that body.

Every other former president would be in a position also to seek election to the senate if he desired to do so. In order to make effective the plan proposed by Senator Fess it would be necessary to amend the constitution. Amending the constitution is no easy process, and the Fess idea of caring for former presidents does not appear likely to be tried out.—Washington Star.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy.

If you would lower your standard of living a little you might be relieved of much worry.

Aren't you traveling a pace too fast for you?

Of course, you want to associate with those who are congenial.

And that is laudable in itself, but what about the windup?

Where will you be then?

You cannot figure, so far, any possible increase in your income.

To reducing your expenses you have not given enough thought, perhaps.

You might reduce them without denying your family necessities.

You might relieve the tension of living beyond your means if you would shave some unnecessary expenses and yet enjoy much the same pleasures and even luxuries.

It might be the worthwhile to get some expert advice as to how to budget your income so as to keep within the circle you wish and yet not suffer mentally as you do now, trying to keep up to a standard too lavish for you and yours.

After all, it is the state of mind, rather than the material possessions, that makes a man and his family happy.

Temper your expenditures to the proper measures.

"Prep and Pep," a scintillating comedy-drama that embodies every element of its title pertaining to American youth, opens at the Ceramic theater for a two-day run starting Monday. This is a special Fox Film feature directed by David Butler and is a refreshing story of modern youth and prep school days.

David Rollins and Nancy Drexel, two of the most popular youngsters on the screen today, are seen in the featured roles, supported by John Darrow, E. H. Calvert and Frank Albertson.

The story revolves around Cyril Reade (Rollins), a mother's boy, who comes to school and finds he is expected to live up to the reputation of his famous father, Tizer Reade. Cyril is a dismal failure and is on the point of leaving school, but the commandant and his daughter Dorothy (Nancy Drexel), convince him he should stay.

How he wins his way to honor in school athletics is climaxed in a thrilling finale when he rescues Dorothy from the inferno and thus wins a name for himself in the annals of school history.

LIMA CONTRACTORS BEGIN WORK ON EAST PALESTINE ROAD JOB

Concrete Curbing is Poured on Section
South of Negley—Two
Other Gaps Will be Surfaced.

LISBON, O., April 27.—Marking the first work on Columbiana county road contracts this year, Lewis Copeland, of Lima, have started to pour concrete curbing on the Negley zone section of the East Liverpool-East Palestine road.

Two other gaps on this road south of Negley, uncompleted last year on account of fills, will be finished within the next 30 days.

Contractors have also asked that stakes be set on the St. Clair township section of this road. The county surveyor's office will probably do this work next week. It is probable that concrete will be poured on this section within the next two weeks.

The new concrete bridge over Beaver creek at Fredericktown will be 200 feet in length, and will show four 50-foot spans. It will be located east of the present iron bridge.

WOOSTER GLEE CLUB IN CONCERT

The Men's Glee club of Wooster will give a concert of sacred music at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Presbyterian church. The club is composed of 20 students, who in the state contest last winter won third place in a field of 11 college glee clubs, losing to Ohio State and Ohio Northern.

Among the numbers they will sing are Arcadelt's "Ave Maria" and Bach's "Break Forth, O Beauteous Heavenly Light."

Prof. George M. Graham, director of the club, will sing "Song of Jesus" by Hillach. There will be instrumental numbers also on the program.

Declaration also has been made by Demetrio Kiknos, 34, a native of Turkey, now a merchant at 329 Main street, Wellsville. He arrived at New York, Nov. 30, 1909. The applicant has indicated that he desires to have his name changed to that of James Smith.

COURT REDUCES ALIMONY ORDER

The former alimony order in the divorce case of Mrs. Virginia Smith of East Palestine against her husband, Oris P. Smith, which was first set at $150 monthly and later decreased, has again been reduced $10 monthly. Smith will pay his former wife $80 a month. When the matter was brought to the attention of Judge W. F. Lones, it was explained that a son of the parties had enlisted in the United States navy.

To save the woman's reputation he does not tell his alibi. This places the decision upon her shoulders. What she does in this desperate predicament is the crux of the story.

Laura La Plante, in the starring role, is the woman. Huntley Gordon is her handsome, polo-playing husband and John Boles is the suitor.

The cast includes Jane Winton, Nancy Dwyer, Julia Swayne Gordon and Eddie Phillips. Paul Schofield wrote the screen adaptation and continuity and Walter Anthony wrote the titles.

"IN OLD ARIZONA" AT AMERICAN

The long awaited Fox Movietone "In Old Arizona" will have its premiere at the American theater Monday.

"In Old Arizona" has aroused the keenest interest and its showing here is epochal, for it is the first feature length all-talking film drama to be made by the Fox Movietone studios, the organization which pioneered in talking pictures.

The cast of more than a score of the leading players in filmland which presides this romantic story of the old southwest is headed by Edmund Lowe, Dorothy Burgess and Warner Baxter, each long accredited stars, and the supporting cast also includes in every instance, stars or featured players of worldwide fame.

Every person in the large cast is seen and heard in the evolution of this tremendous drama of "The Cisco Kid," notorious bandit who roamed the southwest, a killer of men and a breaker of hearts of women. In the progress of the story a young Irish sergeant, ordered to capture the bandit, falls in love with the girl to capture the Cisco Kid and is overheard by the object of his search. What happens will thrill the most blasé picture lover.

"In Old Arizona" has been called "The Covered Wagon of Talking Pictures."

$16,000 FOR WORK AT STATE PARK

No advice have been received by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk, from Columbus relative to bolstering Guilford dam in Hanover township, the site of the new state park.

County commissioners have indicated their approval of a plan to build an improved highway to Guilford when the state park is opened and the lake filled.

Europe for Motor Boating.

Motor boating is to come into its own in Europe during the summer, according to observers. Motorcycle plants are turning out new models of swift water travelers and at least four large auto manufacturers are preparing to supply outboard engines. Outboard contests won the attention of society along the Riviera during the past season. Many French and English coast resorts are preparing for a large number of enthusiasts who have been inspired by Major "Seymour" motor boating, although the craze started before his achievements.

So severe was the cold in Sweden last winter that at times the Baltic ferry was tied up for two or three days.

GENEVA SEES NAVY CUT MOVE

General Disarmament Conference Hope Is Strengthened.

GENEVA, April 27.—(INS)—Hope for a general disarmament conference to consider reduction of armies as well as naval and air fleets was strengthened today as a result of the new atmosphere prevailing the meeting of the League of Nations Preparatory Disarmament commission.

Hugh Gibson's announcement that America will accept the French viewpoint that military reservists should not be counted in peacetime as army effectives was the concession responsible for the new tenor of hopeful ness.

However, while the American attitude is satisfactory to most of the big European powers it is opposite the viewpoint of Germany and Soviet Russia.

Begg Dies In Crash

Veley Main, he said, came along. The sheriff was also following the roadster. Davis got into the sheriff's car and when they reached the other end of Stratford, they found the car in the river with the occupants strewn over the scene.

Davis said he immediately searched the car, and found a liquor bottle in it. A few drops remained in the container, he declared. The policeman said he had this bottle in his possession today and that several witnesses would swear that he took the article from the partly-submerged car.

All three were students at Kenyon college at Gambier, near Mt. Vernon. They were visiting a local fraternity house yesterday afternoon.

Car Owned By Another Student.
Davis declared he had received several complaints that the roadster was violating the speed limits. He also charged that Sheriff Main had made a trip to Sunbury, near here, yesterday afternoon after he had received a report that three youths in a roadster parked along the Spunbury-Delaware pike, were drinking. The car bore the same license number as the automobile which Begg was driving.

Adkins, the only one to escape uninjured, was questioned by police. He stayed at a fraternity house, last night.

The car, which young Begg was reported to have been driving at the time of the accident, was the property of Leonard Dodge, another Kenyon student, according to police. Dodge had lent the car to the youths.

Sheriff Main announced he would conduct a further investigation into the tragedy today.

Pottery City

With Apologies to O. O. McIntyre

That East Liverpool is being frequently referred to in certain sections of Great Britain where the people are squaring away for election of a new parliament after a four-year tenure of the present one can be envisioned by reason of the fact that two of the candidates for places in it are Lady Cynthia Mosely and her distinguished husband, Captain Oswald Mosely, who visited the Pottery City some three years ago. The vote is scheduled in the last days of May.

Since the visit of these two members of the English nobility to East Liverpool, Captain Mosely, who formerly was a member of parliament in a safe district which he gave up to stand against one of the famed members of the Cecil family in a Birmingham seat, was returned to the body in a bye election of another district.

This last contest attracted international attention by reason of the fact that his own father, then living, opposed him, as did Premier Stanley Baldwin. The latter's son came out against his own father in supporting Captain Mosely.

Captain Mosely, upon his father's death some months ago, declared at one time that he would not assume the baronetcy to which he felt heir, since he and his wife had joined the Labor party and had decided socialist leanings in direct opposition to the Tory viewpoints of the older member of the family.

Lady Mosely is the daughter of the late Lord Curzon, former viceroy of India and secretary of state for foreign affairs in the regime of David Lloyd George. For a time it seemed that he and not Stanley Baldwin would be given the premiership of Great Britain.

Regarded as perhaps the most aristocratic man in all England, it was to the family of Lord Curzon that King Albert and Queen Elizabeth entrusted their children, including the crown prince of the Belgians during the World war when the Germans occupied the country and both members of the royal family were almost constantly with the army.

Lady Mosely, desiring a political experience, elected to stand for the Staffordshire or pottery district in her efforts to reach parliament. It was thus to acquaint herself with pottery conditions in America that she came to East Liverpool. She was taken through the first tunnel kiln plant of the Laughlin company in Newell, W. Va., and also that of the R. Thomas & Sons' company then in operation here at West Seventh street.

Should she win her career will be eagerly watched by many in East Liverpool who feel that such an elevation for her will give her prestige on a par with that of Lady Astor, a former American girl, who enjoys the distinction of being the first woman ever elected to parliament.

Henry O'Brien of West End, still retains the massive shoulders and powerful arms which more than 20 years ago, enabled him to get a chance with the Pittsburgh Pirates as a pitcher. Upon the recommendation of W. C. Calhoun, then a leading factor in the baseball world of this locality, he went to the Smoky City and worked out in the old Exposition park where the club was then under the direction of Ned Hanlon, who later made a great reputation as the leader of the famed Baltimore Orioles which boasted such luminaries as John McGraw, Manager Robinson of the present-day Brooklyn club, the late Hugh Jennings and "Scoops" Carey of this city and others.

On the Pittsburgh team at the time was Billy Sunday, the evangelist.

"Billy did me favor just as soon as I joined the club," declared O'Brien recently in recalling his advent into major league ball. "There was much unfavorable sentiment on the part of some of the older players in those days when rookies sought trial. They seemed to resent anyone trying to take their jobs away from them. One day in the club house one of these men took to rubbing my arm with some kind of oil. Billy Sunday came in and saw the procedure, whereupon he told me in no uncertain language that I should not permit that concoction to be placed on the member. I do not know what might have happened to it had I left him go on with what he had started. I always felt that Sunday knew what would have resulted and warned me in time."

O'Brien elected to return to East Liverpool that season though he was slated to join the old Brotherhood league the following year. He long had a creditable record as a twirler with the old Crockery City team and other baseball contingents of the locality. "And I think that Curt Welch was about the greatest player ever in baseball from here," he commented. "He could play any position if he wanted to."

One of East Liverpool's landmarks has passed with the raising of the water-tank which for years graced the hill at the Patterson field along side the Pennsylvania railway switches. In recent years the structure became unsightly. In its place a simple device has been arranged which carries the water from the mains direct into the tanks behind the locomotives.

Always dripping water there was over the possibility for pedestrians so inclined to quench their thirst in passing it. In the summer time the shade that was made by it always served to make it the more of a wish to catch some of the air currents from the river. In the winter it frequently became a mass of ice.

Railway men utilized the space under and about it for tool boxes and otherwise made use of the plot of ground in its proximity. Now, all these have been removed and a sense of something lacking is thrust upon one approaching the spot from any direction.

RETREAT WILL CLOSE SUNDAY

Five Hundred Persons Will Receive Holy Communion.

Between 500 and 600 men and women will receive Holy Communion tomorrow morning in the St. Aloysius Catholic church, West Fifth street, as a feature of the closing day of the annual retreat being conducted by the Rev. Father John J. Prosser, Redemptorist, of Lima, Mass., who will be celebrated at 7:30, 8:30, 9:30 and 11 a. m.

Father Prosser spoke last night on the "Holy Eucharist," in connection with the Forty Hours' of Devotion which opened yesterday morning and will close Sunday night. His sermon was based on the text: "He that eateth my body and drinketh my blood shall have life everlasting."

The missioner, after explaining the origin of the special devotion to the Blessed Sacrament in the thirteenth century at Milan, Italy, pleaded for greater respect for the sacrament on the part of Catholics. He urged those present to frequently visit the altar rail in communion where they would receive His body and blood into their souls.

Confessions will be heard this afternoon and tonight.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

By W. S. Cousins.
International News Service Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, April 27.—There was little trace of Friday's unsettlement in the stock market in today's short session of the market. Both professionals and the outside traders were ready to buy stocks, while the bears were apparently frightened off by their inability to upset the market when the week-end pinch in the money market drove the call loan rate to 16 per cent.

A dozen or more of the popular copper, railroad and manufacturing stocks were pushed up a point or two when buying demand struck the market at the opening.

The bankers explained the tight money situation by the heavy preparations for the May first settlements and saw nothing unusual in the week-end pinch in the call market. Within a week at the most the money paid out by the banks will be coming back in full force seeking employment and the rates will move down. Wealth, health and prosperity for the American people was the keynote of the week-end financial and business reviews.

Says "Orange Root" Rid Her of Choking Spells, Gas Pains

Mrs. Nannie K. Holland Wins Great Victory Over Dreadful Stomach Trouble Which Tortured Her for 10 Long Years and Almost Made an Invalid of Her — Everything She Eats Agrees With Her Now She Says.

Mrs. Nannie K. Holland of Columbia Avenue, Chester, near East Liverpool, O., is just another happy woman today for she has won a great victory over a terrible case of stomach trouble which for 10 years almost proved her undoing. She gives all the credit to "ORANGE ROOT," the King of Tonic. In the following manner: "For 10 years I have been a victim of a severe case of stomach trouble, and never found a thing in all those years that did me a single bit of good, altho I tried numerous remedies supposed to be helpful for my ailments. Gas pains would shoot all thru my stomach immediately after eating, and at times would cause dreadful smothering and choking spells, accompanied by intense and almost unbearable pains in the region of my heart. I became nervous, and when almost a nervous wreck, and almost too weak and rundown to get about, heard about this great ORANGE ROOT, and immediately decided to give it a trial, for so many of my friends had been restored to health thru its use. After taking only 3 bottles of it I CONSIDER MYSELF A WELL WOMAN. All those dreadful gas pains, smothering spells and other weaknesses are GONE for good, and I am stronger and livelier than I have been in years. Why, I can now eat ANYTHING I choose, and NOTHING seems to disagree with me. It is remarkable how quickly my stomach came back, my nerves became steeled, and my whole system built up and strengthened all over. It seems as though it is good to be true, but nevertheless it is, and I am one grateful person today. I found the golden Nuggets to be the finest laxative and liver regulator I ever used and shall always keep them handy." Now is the time of year everybody needs ORANGE ROOT, for it not only corrects faulty digestion, drives out rheumatism, ends neuritis, tones up the nerves and builds up the entire system, but acts as a blood purifier, and general reconstructive tonic for all weak, nervous, underweight men, women and children.

Go at once to MATHESON'S ORIGINAL CUT RATE where Mr. H. L. Kauf is daily explaining and introducing this greatest of all TONICS, get a treatment of 3 bottles of it, a box of the golden Nuggets, take them faithfully for a few days, and WATCH THE SPEEDY IMPROVEMENT IN YOUR CONDITION. Endorsed and recommended by countless thousands from all sections of the nation. Prices TONIC, $1.25, Nuggets 50¢. Add 10¢ extra for parcel post charges if your local druggist cannot supply you.

Garcia To Work Out Here Before Scrap With Gibbons Monday

Will Don Gloves At Atlas A.C.

T. N. T. Gibbons in Shape for Valley A. C. Slugfest.

M. DON JOSE GARCIA, the well known fighter, will be a week-end visitor in East Liverpool.

This announcement is issued from the personal column in view of the fact that it has considerable significance to district followers of the punch and sock industry.

Senior Garcia will be introduced to one T. N. T. Gibbons, of Pittsburgh. Monday night in the city hall auditorium, Wellsville, under auspices of the Valley A. C. This Gibbons guy right away will want to sock the Don in the mush. And the Don won't stand for it. It looks like there's a quarrel brewing.

At any rate, the Don and the Dynamiter are matched for eight rounds of slugging in the top feature of the Monday night program. And one of them is going to come back in a couple of weeks or so for a return engagement, with Mickey Solomon, no less. That's the procedure mapped out by Matchmaker Ray Fouts.

Mr. Garcia, accompanied by Byron Fouts, the stable man, boxing, that is, is scheduled to arrive in East Liverpool tonight and will remain here until the weighing in Monday afternoon.

Tomorrow afternoon Garcia will work out at the Atlas club gymnasium, Washington street, the session being scheduled for 3 o'clock. The session also will be open to any one who cares to see the 150-pounder go through his paces.

In all likelihood Garcia will maul a few rounds with Freddy Edwards, the Chester welterweight; Ray Mitchell, East Liverpool, and possibly one or two others.

In the meantime, Gibbons will polish up the old wallop in his Pittsburgh abode.

The Dynamiter also has been out on the coast. He tangled with Cowboy Jack Willis who fought Mickey Walker several times.

A year ago in Canton he gave Mickey Fodor a terrible lacing in a main bout at the auditorium. He also beat Al Walther in the same spot.

Others of his victims include Ernie Miller, Billy Hirsch, Frank Klaus, Young Ketchel and Frankie Cavanaugh.

The Gibbons-Garcia shindling will not be a boxing exhibition. In the first place, it is doubtful if either knows enough of the intricacies of scientific boxing to produce what might be termed a regulation boxing exhibition.

Their stock in trade consists chiefly of leather lungs, tough bodies, the ability to take punishment and a proportionate ability to hand it out.

Jack Zivic, the Pittsburgh welter, will be in Garcia's corner. The Don has been working out with Zivic and the latter thinks Garcia has plenty of stuff.

Of a like nature will be the six-round semifinal between Freddy Edwards and Joe Todd, of Donora. Edwards' punching power has carried him through to victory consistently and he's confident he can lick anybody from Donora by the name of Todd. The latter, however, also whipped Jack McCarthy, and a flock of others.

Tom Chaplow, Sebring, and Battling Bloom, the Salineville coal miner, are candidates in one of the four-rounders with Sambo Brown, Irondale colored star, meeting Frankie Palermo, Sebring, in the other.

Newell Trims Rogers Nine in Opener 11-0

Sage Fans 16; Miller and A. Laneve Hit Homers.

Fanning 16 and permitting but a single safety off his delivery over seven innings, Russell Sage hurled Nate Lora's Newell high school baseball club to an 11-0 victory over Rogers in the West Virginians' opening game of the season.

The Newell club collected seven blows off the visiting twirler, scoring in every inning, with spurts of three in the third and four in the fourth.

A. Laneve, Miller and J. Laneve led the clubbers, each with two clouts in four times up apiece. Miller and A. Laneve contributed a homer apiece.

Defense of the Newell nine also functioned smoothly, only one miscue being charged against them.

The Sport Jigger

By the Sports Editor

IF JACK McAWFUL... beg pardon... Jack McAuliffe and Romero Rojas, just to mention a couple offhand, had the necessary sylph-like forms, they could compete, says Joe Shush, with Aileen Riegen.

The chief difference is—Aileen is good looking.

And how she can dive!

The old kid, K. O. Christner, flopped Jack McAuliffe the other night for a K. O. in two shakes. It was reminiscent of his bouts with Bambo Meyers, Rojas and George Gemas.

But don't blame the K. O. Kid! He's in a position to fight for these promoting hordes who can talk figures in a commanding language. He's got one coming along with Otto Van Porat in New York June 27. And a pasting would do him practically no good. He'd lose his standing in the financial league. As a ranking contender, he'd be just Rank!

Old Chris is credited with telling this one himself. When he and his pilot, Tom Lennon, Canton, reached Gotham for the K. O.'s bout with Jack Sharkey, they both got earfuls to the effect that Christner couldn't win this fight... not by a fistful. "How come?" queried the Ohioans. But the answer wasn't among those present... until they slipped on the gloves.

Old Shark's a good boxer. Christ is a slugger. Six-ounce mitts are the accepted knuckle covers. Chris says they brought on eights. Chris protested. It would ruin his hitting. The Shark's corner voted solidly for the eights. So they compromised...

And wore the eights, say K. O.

Anyhow, that's his story and he'll stick to it.

Like the diamond rookie, just reporting to the manager. "Say, bo, I throw them from the outfield like Dazzy Vance does to the plate, Paddock ain't got a thing on me on the old alleyways, and as for clouting... why this guy Hornsby..."

"Stop!" says the manager, "I can see right away you're another SPEAKER!"

LAKESIDE SEEKS CLASS B HONORS

DEFIANCE, O., April 27.—Entering the second and last day of the second annual interscholastic relays being held here under the directorship of Defiance college, Lakeside high school was preparing to keep the lead it maintained yesterday and go through to the class B championship today.

Lakeside scored 14½ points in the five events which were decided yesterday afternoon, and placed two fast men in the finals of the 100-yard dash to be run off today.

Fifteen class A schools will decide the winner in 13 special events today. Four relays, in addition to the regular special events, will be decided this afternoon.

Taking first place in the 100-yard dash, a first and second in the quarter-mile and winning the sprint relay, Lakeside has conceded an edge over its field of the 15 opponents that will be hard to overcome. The Lakeside team should not have much difficulty in taking class B honors of the meet, after the final gun this afternoon.

RECORDS REEL AT DRAKE MEET

DES MOINES, Ia., April 27.—Records were reeling, with some tumbles in prospect, and embryo champions were being fitted for crowns today as preliminaries survivors lined up for the finals of the 26th annual Drake relay carnival.

One new champion already has come out of the competition yesterday which saw elimination of many favorites in all events.

Cadet Captain Carl Ack, unheralded discus thrower from West Point Military academy, broke Bud Houser's world mark with a toss of 155 feet, 3 inches. It assures him of first place unless one of his five co-qualifiers betters the throw this afternoon.

COLUMBIA, NAVY OARSMEN MEET

NEW YORK, April 27.—Columbia and the Navy will pry open the intercollegiate rowing season in the East in deadly earnest today when their powerful varsity eight-oared crews clash in a two-mile race on the Harlem river. Simultaneously Princeton and the surprising M. I. T. oarsmen will battle in a race of hardly less importance on the Charles river basin at Boston.

HIRAM DEFEATS MOUNT TOSSERS

ALLIANCE, O., April 27.—In the opening game of the season, which was featured by ragged playing and costly errors on the part of both teams, the Hiram college baseball team defeated Mount Union here yesterday, 7 to 6.

Thrills Promised Also As Nation's Best Vaulters Prepare to Leap Skyward.

By Davis J. Walsh.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—World's records in the 100-yard dash and pole vault tottered on their pedestals today as clear weather and fair footing greeted the finale of the Pennsylvania relay carnival at Franklin Field; the game will sponsor what is figured to be the sprint classic of the year with the meeting of George Simpson, world's record-maker, and Jack Elder, the only man to start and finish ahead of Percy Williams in one and the same race.

This very hasty duo will go to the post with a great field in the 100-yard dash, if the winner doesn't touch Simpson's 9.5-10 seconds performance of last week, it won't be due to a lack of inspiration.

And so it will be in the pole vault where Sturdy, the 14-foot man from Yale, will take issue with Vic Packard, of Pittsburgh, who cracked 12 feet 10 inches last winter; McAtee, Michigan State; Stewart, Georgia Tech; and Mantz, Ohio State; if any human being is capable of a 14 feet 2 inch vault, it is reasonable to expect that he will be on Franklin Field this afternoon.

These constitute the only major records in danger, unless it be that Paavo Nurmi, the one-man tent show, really has a chance at his own three-mile record in a race against the watch, or that Leo Lermond can run one mile under the American record of 4:12.35, which is possible but not highly probable.

However it must be conceded that one major record was created before the games began when it failed to rain before the second day of Pennsylvania's carnival actually came into being.

The track however was somewhat heavy from the many rains of recent weeks and Simpson, Elder, Kries, Larson, Wildermuth, Henson, Bowen, et al were prepared to find conditions not exactly to their liking when they faced the gun in the century.

BEARS BATTER WAY TO 9-2 WIN

ADA, April 27.—Out-classing their visitors in every department of the game, Ohio Northern's Polar Bears downed Otterbein's baseball team here yesterday afternoon for the second time this season. The score was 9-2. Northern, hitting almost at will, took a three-run lead in the second frame, and after that Otterbein apparently had no chance.

Commercial wireless telephone service will be opened between the Hawaiian Islands.

Rajah's Triple With Three On Beats Pirates

Grantham Starts Rally With Homer in Eighth.

PITTSBURGH, April 27.—Rogers Hornsby's war club was a big aid to the Chicago Cubs here yesterday in defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9 to 6.

Hornsby tripled in the third with three men on base, his cleanup smash overcoming a lead piled up by the Baccaneers in the previous inning.

Grantham, Pirate outfielder, drove a long homer into the right field stands with two on in the eighth. Six pitchers were used in the contest. Chicago started with Bush and the Pirates with Kremer. The latter was relieved in the third by Brame who gave way to Petty in the sixth. French finished for Pittsburgh. Bush held the locals hitless from the second to the eighth, but he weakened in the ninth and Cvergros relieved him.

NEVER LOSES

ALLIANCE, April 27.—Frederick Cope of Salem has made a record on the cinder track at Mount Union college which he may find difficult to maintain this season. During his two years of collegiate competition he has never lost the two mile event in any Mount Union track meet. Last year he captured the conference honors in the "Six Six" meet at Wooster.

Training for this one event has been a matter of daily routine for Cope for the past five years. During this time he has not eaten pie, cake, or butter, and only sparingly of meat. Vegetables, cheese, milk and eggs are the chief items of his menu. For desert he is served cereal at his fraternity house.

Forbidden Door

Story of Adventurous Youth, Mystery, Fortune and a Girl.

By Herman Landon

An Hour Later.

It was an hour later. Old Winthrop's clock had just struck 5 when Mallingham, carrying a candle, entered the hall of the library.

The house was comparatively quiet. Not a sound of the storm reached through the enveloping mass of snow and rocks and gravel. For the time at least, it seemed as if the powers of destruction had spent their energies. The most vulnerable parts of the house had given way, and now a sort of equilibrium had set in. The guests and their belongings had been moved from the upper floors to the lower, where the danger was not so great. Some of them were sleeping, thanks to liberal doses of bromides. Others were in that apathetic state which comes when repeated shocks have stunned the nerves into insensibility. A small minority took a hopeful view of the situation or pretended to do so.

Mallingham was not in that hopeful minority. He had neither hopes nor illusions, and he did not pretend otherwise. He had studied the outlook as philosophically as he could, and he believed that the final cataclysm was only a question of hours. The house, even though constructed in accordance with Old Winthrop's ideas of solidity and endurance, could not withstand the terrific strain for long.

There was no hope of help from the outside, for there was no other dwelling within miles, and it was rarely that any one had occasion to visit this isolated region. In Mallingham's opinion, the inevitable end was death or every one within the house.

He accepted the prospect with grim fortitude, but also with a haunting sense of regret. He was no longer thinking of the face that had stared at him as he opened the door. He had dismissed that astonishing vision from his mind. It was of no consequence now, besides, he might have been mistaken. With death near, there was only one thing that mattered to Mallingham. Old Winthrop, the clock and the iron door had become a single dominant obsession. Always and at every turn the lingering spirit of Old Winthrop seemed to have mocked and frustrated him. The clock and the iron door had baffled him. He had felt himself outwitted and jeered at by a man long since dead. But now it was different.

He set the candle down on the floor and began to manipulate the intricate system of bolts and levers on the door. A single maddening melody was singing in his brain. He felt a grim rejoicing at the thought that at last he was defying Old Winthrop's dread inspiring contrivances. No longer could they imbue him with the awe and the hesitancy he had felt on previous occasions. Death was certain anyway, so what difference did it make? He would have the satisfaction, at least, of invading the precincts into which Old Winthrop had exhaled the breath of his personality. From a practical point of view nothing mattered any longer, but he took a great vindictive delight in ripping away the curtain of mystery.

He laughed nervously as he worked the bolts, stopping now and then to study the system. In a little while now the forbidden door would swing open. In a few minutes he would tear the veil away from Old Winthrop's secret, verifying by sight and touch what he already suspected. Something might stop him, of course—he did not know just what—before he could proceed far enough. The incessant ticking of the clock above the door sounded a warning in his ears. He shrugged his broad shoulders with a stoical air. Let the ghost of Old Winthrop do its worst!

With a metallic click the last bolt slipped free of its socket. Mallingham straightened himself from his stooping position. He fixed the clock with a jeering, contemptuous look. Only a hard pull now, and the door would swing open. He almost wished Old Winthrop were present to hear the squeak of defiance of the heavy hinges, to watch his scoffing progress into the dead man's shrine.

He mopped the perspiration from his brow. Only the voice of the clock was heard. "You are afraid," it seemed to whisper, and Mallingham laughed in its face. Only a moment longer he would wait, to steady the whirl of his brain and the fierce beating at his temples. Why was he so excited when there was nothing to fear? Even if the worst were to happen, he was only hastening the inevitable.

Could it be that the internal spell of Old Winthrop lingered over him still?

"You are afraid," came the whisper of the clock.

Mallingham laughed hoarsely. He would throw back into Old Winthrop's face some of the taunts with which the dead man had pursued him. He placed his hand on the massive door handle and stood waiting, as if gauging strength for a final pull. Then a faint light in his blood; hot and cold flashes were running up and down his back. Once more he glanced up at the clock, its face dusky of outline in the meager light of the candle. His hand tightened about the door handle. Now—

But something stayed his hand. The hall door had suddenly opened. A young woman stood in the opening. She was about the same height as Mrs. Martenet, and for a moment he thought the intruder was indeed Julia. Then as the candlelight fell on her face, illuminating her short brown curls and wide hazel eyes, he knew he had made a mistake.

"Better wait, Mr. Mallingham," she said, noticing that he was still clutching the door handle. "The clock hasn't stopped yet."

Mallingham stared at her. She was in a simple suit of blue serge. He could see at a glance that she was not one of the guests. Her face looked very pale in the candle-light, but her gaze was steady and her firm-boned little chin hinted of infinite capabilities.

"What do you know about the clock?" His voice was a little gruff. "What are you doing here?"

"I am Viola Lane, Dr. Speck's patient. You may have heard of me."

Mallingham regarded her with keener interest. He did not resent the temporary interruption. A few minutes could not matter. "What do you want?"

"I want to ask you a question—no, two questions. Where is Mr. Curry?"

"I haven't the faintest idea."

Her steady, hazel eyes searched his face. "Well, then, will you tell me what you have done with Hannan Martenet?"

Mallingham stared in stupefaction at this curious young woman. "I don't know why you put such questions to me, but I am willing to gratify your curiosity." He paused; a blurred vision rose before his eyes. No—such things could not be. "Hannan is dead," he added, speaking emphatically, as if trying to convince himself.

"Did you kill him?"

Mallingham smiled faintly. To lie at such a time, with death but a few hours away, seemed a waste of breath. Life's meanings had become twisted and warped.

"No, but I happen to know who did."

"You are very frank." Her mouth tightened a little; the eyes she fixed on him were full of aversion.

"Why shouldn't I be? Nothing that I may say or do will mean anything a few hours hence. Now, if you don't mind, I wish you would leave me. I am busy."

"So I see." A mouthless smile tinged her lips. "You were on the point of opening the iron door when I interrupted, weren't you? You are not very consistent, Mr. Mallingham. Now say nothing will have any meaning a few hours from now, yet you are determined to open that door."

"Even a dying man may wish to gratify a whim. By the way, how do you happen to know my name?"

"Somebody was talking about you. What do you expect to find inside, if you get there alive?"

"Oh, certain things," said Mallingham vaguely. "They will not be of any earthly use to me, of course, but I'll have the satisfaction of seeing them."

She drew a little closer, regarding him with a mingling of perplexity and hostility. "Wouldn't it be better to stop the clock before you open the door?"

"Stop the clock?" He laughed ironically. "How?"

"I don't know, but I should think it could be done. Anyway, somebody opened the door night before last, from the inside."

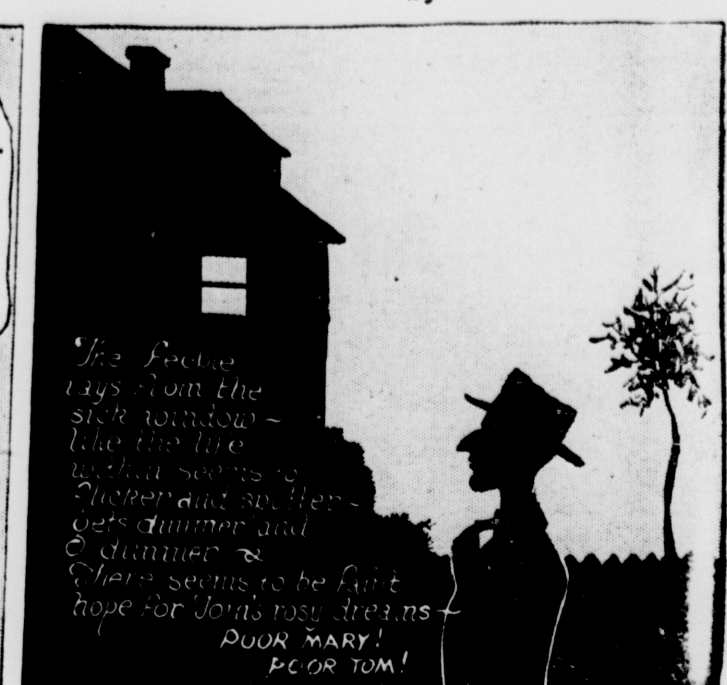

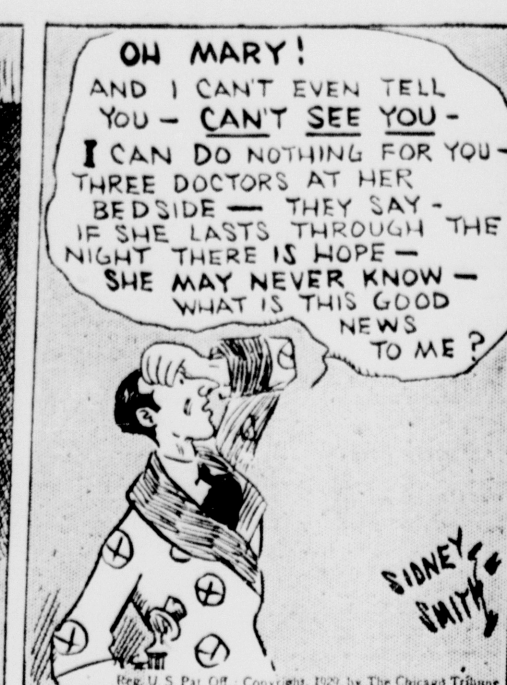

Mallingham clutched her arm in a convulsive grip. "You are lying."

"Oh, very well." She released her arm. "If you don't believe me—"

"Tell me the rest," said Mallingham excitedly. "What did you see?"

WEST VIRGINIA GIRL WHO BROKE CURFEW LAW IS GIVEN CHANCE

CAMDEN, N. J., April 27.—Extradition of Ruth Marie Cundiff, Camden girl, to West Virginia where she escaped from an industrial home last February, was prevented temporarily yesterday when Police Judge Hancock sentenced her to a detention home here for 30 days.

The girl, whose family formerly lived in Chester, W. Va., was sentenced to the industrial home from Sistersville when she was observed on the street 45 minutes after curfew rang. Unaccompanied girls under 18 are forbidden on the streets of the town after 9 p. m., and Ruth was committed to the home until she was 21.

Subsequently her parents moved to Camden and the girl made her way here by walking and hitch-hiking after her escape. Her extradition blocked temporarily, social workers here are trying to have the West Virginia charges dropped.

Dragon Too Fat, "Slimmed."

Decreasing the waist line of a seven-foot Komodo dragon has been the task of keepers of the London Zoo recently. It had been eating too many eggs presented by visitors and put on too much flesh. It has to be given daily walks about the reptile house, and has been put on a "diet" of only two rats a week. And one of the rats, a large white, is filled with castor oil, before being offered to the dragon. The treatment is effective but not relished by the descendant of fairy-tale monsters.

To Radio Crime Pictures.

Photographs of wanted criminals are to be broadcast throughout the Reich by the German police. Through a private broadcasting service, which they have been using for conveying finger prints by a special code, and for keeping in touch with their forces, authorities will flash the pictures to all leading towns, and especially frontier stations. Police headquarters of these places will be equipped with receiving apparatus at once.

PICTURE PATTERN

TRIM HIPS.

THE STYLE No. 3319 expresses the latest vogue for all-around wear in low placed circular fullness in skirt which is attached to a hip yoke in pointed treatment at front. The scalloped treatment of Vionnet neck-line is another youthful idea. It is very smart in printed silk-crepe in tweed pattern in beige and brown tones, navy blue self-checked, sheer woolen, black crepe satin, bright red silk crepe or crepe silk printed in geometric motifs.

THE PATTERN is designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust, and has a Chart in Picture lessons to help you make it, which is a great saver for the experienced sewer, and will help the beginner immensely to obtain perfect fit. For the 36-inch size, 3 1/4 yards of 40-inch material with 5 yards of binding is sufficient.

In ordering pattern clip the design shown or order by number, and be sure to specify the size you want. Write your name and address plainly, enclosing 15 cents and mail to Fashion Department, East Liverpool Review, From 7 to 10 days are required for delivery of patterns.

NEW FASHION BOOK containing all the Spring styles is 15 cents, but may be obtained for 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

STORY OF YOUTH COMING TO CERAMIC MONDAY

In the featured roles are David Rollins, Nancy Drexel and John Darrow, who are undeniably the best examples of what youngsters in motion pictures have to give the screen. Rollins' smile wins all hearts. He is ideally cast as the timid boy who fights a great fight to win himself a place in the school's athletic history. Nancy Drexel has more than beauty and is a capable little actress with a sparkling personality as the feminine interest, and Darrow as Flash Wells, the rival, repeats his excellent performance of "High School Hero."

"Prep and Pop" is the story of Cyril Reade, the son of Calvert's most famous athlete, Tiger Reade. Cyril comes to school the polished son—a timid boy—bashful and unassuming.

At the Ceramic theater Monday and Tuesday.

"Mark Every Grave"

Memorial Day sees our cemeteries thronged by thousands of relatives and friends of the departed. At this time, above all others, every grave should be suitably marked with imperishable granite.

We have a beautiful display of lettered markers on our floor now and invite your inspection, of course, without any obligation on your part.

There is still plenty of time to have a marker lettered for your lot, provided you give the matter immediate attention.

Our display room is open daily from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. for your convenience.
